Warmth Without Weight.

At one-third of our lives is spent in bed, we ought to take advantage of any improvements that make sleep more beautiful and restful. There is a new comfort now that is entirely different from any other we have ever seen. It is so much lighter than the sleeper has no sense of weight upon him, yet he is perfectly warm, on the coldest night. People using these comforts say they can be compared only to the genuine eider-down of long ago. Every reader ought to see and feel them. Simply ask for the Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comfort at Perry's.
